I was going right by the Northwood plant on my way from Nevada and I think it’s awesome that you can fit people in on short notice, and for me, that’s what customer service is all about. After doing a lot of research on the web, a very good friend of mine introduced me to his best friend who just bought an Arctic Fox 990. He raved about how great his Arctic Fox was. Terry Burke  Kelowna, BC - 990 owner.

A True Story: “Ask the rep from any other camper manufacturer how many nights he has spent in one of his company’s truck campers, and odds are, he hasn’t spent any…”

Doug’s story: I travel a lot for Northwood, which I really enjoy, but flying on airplanes, sleeping in hotels and eating in restaurants was getting old. One day a few years back, I had just returned home from a particularly rough sales trip and was sharing the details with my wife, retracing the flight delays, the lousy restaurant food, the noisy hotels, and when I finished the story she asked me, ‘why don’t you stay in one of your truck campers?’ The more I considered her suggestion, the better it sounded.

Over the past 2 years I have spent 182 nights in an Arctic Fox Truck camper. I started with a 990 and switched it a year ago for a 992. It’s amazing what you will discover by living in your own product. It’s the little things you discover. As a result of my ‘campouts’, we’ve added a bigger dinette window, the dream dinette, a light in the dump valve area, clear glass in the rear entry door and many more improvements.

Of course cooking my own food, having my own bed and shower in addition to meeting new people in the campgrounds is all preferable for me too.

I’ve spent nights in the Arctic Fox when it was 8 degrees and days when it was 115 degrees and indoors you’d never know the difference except the A/C was running or the heater was on. The climate control in the Arctic Fox even amazed me and I have been selling these since they first were created in 1999.

The only draw back to traveling in the Arctic Fox is when I pull into a campground and the jacks go down, the slide goes out, I extend the awning and hook up the barbeque, I always end up putting on my tour guide hat and going back to work. You see, no one in the campground believes all these features come in a truck camper. People are always very impressed because the Arctic Fox is a very impressive product.”

Doug Karr “The Camper Guy”

John & Linda Ross, 990 owners

Hey Mick,
Just wanted to let you know that I just returned from a one month shakedown of my new Arctic Fox. I put it through its paces going to Big Bend N.P., Big Bend Ranch State Park and Guadalupe N.P., all in Texas. Big Bend Ranch State Park involved about 35 miles of dirt and 4-wheel drive roads, camped in 70 mph winds in Big Bend, and got into below freezing weather at Guadalupe N.P. The camper exceeded my expectations and everything worked fine. I'm very pleased.

Your friend in Chattanooga,
Pete

CAMPER SAFETY TIPS: For your safety while driving, use mirrors that allow you to view past the camper to the rear on both sides. Trucks can be purchased with extended mirror options or you may purchase mirror extensions. Truck manufacturers state that you should not exceed the GWWR for the vehicle that carries your camper. The configuration of your truck will determine what size camper your vehicle can carry. A dual rear wheel truck is advisable for Arctic Fox campers. Adjustable air bags will help to level your vehicle transfer rear axle weight forward for comfort and safety and are recommended for all Arctic Fox applications. Some states allow passengers to ride in the camper, but it is not recommended as there are no seat belts available. When driving in any adverse weather condition it is always best to reduce your speed. The pickup should be outfitted with a durable rubber mat liner to reduce shifting while traveling. The mat will also protect the truck bed and camper from scratching while loading and unloading.

Use TORKLIFT frame mounted camper tie downs for greatest safety.

More Popular Options To Consider

With the Overhead Bunk option in the dinette, you can add an extra sleeping area for a child. The bunk quickly and conveniently folds up and away against the ceiling of the slideout when not in use. You may also want to consider adding a Full Wall Wardrobe in the bedroom or a Roll-Over Lounge instead of the standard dinette. (Available in most models).
